

Fourth Grade Field Trip to the Smithtown Historical Society

Fourth grade students traveled to the 1700s in order to study the life of a typical colonist living on Long Island.

Participating in activities which included candle-making, writing with quill pens, creating tavern signs and making silouttes, the students walked away with a greater appreciation of the people living during that era .

